HARVEST DAY AT CHURCHES

Recent Revival Bears Much Fruit--
At Sunday Services a Total of Thirty-seven Additions to Ada's
Several Churches--Others Yet to Come.

Sunday was a glorious harvest day for the various churches, following the Burke revival, one of the greatest ever held in the city.

Following is a list of those joining the churches at the Sunday services, so far as reported, most of them being revival converts—a total of 37 additions for the day, others having joined previously, and still others yet expected to join:

Christian Church—Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Babbitt, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Couch, Mrs. Adams, Kit Guest, Mr. Durham, Dallas Allen, Clara Tallá, Mr. Melbourne, Mrs. Marlin, Joe Guest, J. E. Hurry, Geo. Thompson, C. K. Davenport, Ordinance of baptism administered to four, others to be baptised. Total number 15.

Immanuel Presbyterian—Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Pugh, Mrs. Virgil Hale, Alpha Sledge, Etta Russell, Pearl Johnson, Byron Sledge, Odie Davidson, Bailey Bobbitt, Nine in number.

First Baptist—Charley Thomas, John McKinney, Hattie Crow, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Merve Dismuke. A total of six.

Second Baptist—A. D. Hicks.

First Presbyterian—George Harrison.

First Methodist—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bolen, Dr. R. F. King, J. E. Grigsby.

Total of four.

North Ada Methodist—Mrs. J. B. Donaghey.

Sulphur Guests With Noted Names

Sulphur, I. T., Nov. 9.—Many famous and noted men have within the past few months visited Sulphur for the mineral waters and for rest and recreation in the Platt National park—old men who have the proud bearing and courtly and courteous manners of half a century ago. One of these, Judge William R. Reagan, a brother of Texas' greatest senator and the greatest man in Jeff Davis' cabinet, left Sulphur this evening for his home in Oklahoma City after an outing at this resort. This was the Judge's first visit to Sulphur. His brother, Senator Reagan of Texas, and Governor Throckmorton visited here twenty-five years ago and spent a summer here in camps, receiving great benefits.

SALOON MEN WILL FIGHT.

Will Resist Enforcement of the Prohibition Ordinance.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 11.—With the contention that the prohibition clause of the constitution is meant merely as a restrictive measure upon the action of the state legislature in fixing a penalty plans are being made by the saloon keepers of Oklahoma City to test the prohibitory clause.

Legal assistance has been retained and it is said that a collection has been taken for raising funds, which are to be used in carrying the case through to the supreme court of the United States. According to the plans as revealed by a bar tender of one of the city saloons, one saloon keeper has been jointly agreed upon who is to keep his place of business open on Monday following the admission of the state into the union.

Arrests are expected to follow but the case will then be carried up to the higher courts for a test. County authorities have stated that all violations of the prohibition clause will be met with prompt assessment of the penalty fixed by the constitution.

It is stated that test cases will also be made from Guthrie and El Reno.

Several yearly licenses were taken out in September while Joseph Leach, 229 West California avenue, secured a $500 year's license October 23, which, if prohibition becomes effective allows him to operate less than a month.

Protest Against Porter.

Ardmore, I. T., Nov. 11.—Jacob Bodovitz, a wealthy merchant of this city, has filed charges against the appointment of Grove A. Porter, as United States marshal of the eastern Oklahoma federal district.

Porter, who is a cousin of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, is accused of tameness. Bodovitz states that should the president insist on sending Porter's name to the senate he will fight it's approval before that body and will produce sensational affidavits.

QUICK DIVORCES FOR A TIME

Statehood Will Re-instate Old Oklahoma Statute Requiring Only 90 Days Residence Before Suit for Divorce is Filed--Must be so till Legislature Acts.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 11.—After Nov. 16 on which date President Roosevelt has announced he will sign the statehood proclamation, and until the first state legislature of Oklahoma shall provide otherwise, the ninety-day divorce law, which reaped a harvest for divorce lawyers here in the early days, will again be in force. This results from the action of the constitutional convention in accepting the statutes of Oklahoma Territory until such of them as are necessary are changed by the legislature from time to time.

The law making a ninety-day residence in Oklahoma a sufficient time in which to obtain a divorce is an Oklahoma Territory statute. It was in effect for a number of years, and numerous persons of wealth and prominence in the east made Oklahoma their Mecca, and were residents here for three months in order to secure a legal separation from their better halves. A stop was put to "quick divorces" in the Territory, however, by an act of congress applying to territories only and making a year's residence necessary in which to obtain a divorce.

When statehood becomes effective, however, according to no less a legal authority than Chief Justice John H. Burford, the congressional act will no longer apply in Oklahoma, and the old-time ninety-day quick-divorce law takes its place. Judge Burford declares there is no doubt whatever regarding this change in the divorce laws until the legislature shall remedy the statute.

Another change to which Judge Burford calls attention, which becomes effective with statehood, is the appointment of the state librarian, who has custody of the supreme court library as well.

Applicants for the position of librarian should file their petitions and memorials with the members of the recently-elected state bench instead of with Governor-elect C. N. Haskell. It is understood here that there are a number of applicants, all of whom filed their applications with the governor-elect.

The Store Where QUALITY Stands for Something.

What Mr. Gore Did Say.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 11.—T. P. Gore of Lawton, senatorial nominee from the Oklahoma side, has replied to the statement in newspapers that he said in his speech here before the Farmers' National congress he would favor in the United States senate free farm implements. What the blind orator insists he said was this:

"I am in favor of placing farming implements on the free list, so that the American farmer can buy his implements as cheaply as the German peasant along the Rhine, the Russian serf along the Danube, and the Mexican greaser along the Rio Grande. In my opinion the humblest American farmer is as royal as a king and is entitled to more consideration at the hands of his government than all the crowned heads that ever oppressed and plundered mankind."

During Mr. Gore's campaign for the nomination he advocated placing on the free list, as far as tariff is concerned everything trust-made.

Look at the Sun Thursday.

A very interesting astronomical phenomenon will be the transit of the planet Mercury across the sun's disk on next Thursday, November 14. It will be visible immediately after sunrise through a field glass, aided by a piece of red or a smoked glass.

At the time of sunrise, 7:05, central time, Mercury will appear as a very small black spot on the upper left hand corner part of the sun's disk, and it will leave the latter at nine minutes before eight.

Transits of Mercury occur rather rarely, about thirteen in a century. As they can happen only when mercury crosses the ecliptic, or the sun's annual path in the heavens, and as this takes place twice a year, in May and November, a transit of this planet can occur only in these two months.

SILVER AND GOLD BRAND SHIRTS ARE SOLD BY US

The next transit will occur in November 6, 1914. There is twice as many transits in November as in May because Mercury is at its least distance from the sun in November.

On November 14 Mercury will be about sixty-two million miles from the Earth or about two-thirds of the distance between the Earth and the Sun or 250 times as far as the Moon is from us.

Since Mercury is infinitely smaller than the Sun, its apparent diameter being only about one two-hundredths of that of the Sun, it looks so small when compared with the latter, that if the Sun were represented by a white disk of eight feet in diameter, Mercury would appear on it as a black spot the size of a five-cent piece.

The transits of Mercury are of especial interest to the astronomer because they enable him to determine the mean distance of the earth from the Sun, which is, so to speak the foot-rule of the astronomer and in terms of which he expresses all other linear distances.

Women's Clubs to be Amalgamated.

Sapulpa, I. T., Nov. 9.—Sapulpa is making great preparations for the entertainment of the Indian Territory Federation of Women's Clubs which meets in fourth annual session November 12-15. The meeting will be held in Sapulpa's new convention hall and more than 300 delegates and visitors are expected.

The Indian Territory federation will pass away at this meeting as a resolution favoring amalgamation with the Oklahoma federation at its last meeting in Enid voted unanimously for the consolidation, in view of the fact that statehood is at hand. The union of the two organizations will be brought about at once.

The Indian Territory federation embraces 35 of the leading towns in the east half of the new state with a combined club membership of almost 1,000.

To the School Patrons of Ada.

By virtue of a resolution of the school board of this date directing me to say that it is the sense of the board that it would be to the best interest of the schools, for all parents to stop the attendance of their children upon the schools wherever it appears that any of their family is afflicted with throat trouble of the kind that is prevalent in the community at this time. This action has been found necessary owing to the prevalence of this disease.

We trust that all persons so situated will observe this for the public good until the danger ceases to exist. Respectfully,

J. E. GRIGSBY, President.

LEAGUE FOR LAW AND ORDER

Citizens Assemble and Organize to Support Officers in Enforcement of the Laws -- Resolutions Against "Joints."

Pursuant to a call issued, about three hundred of Ada's representative men assembled at the First M. E. church Sunday at 3 p. m. and organized themselves into a Law and Order League.

After song, and prayer by Rev. Harrell, a motion by R. O. Wheeler, prevailed that the meeting proceed to the election of temporary officers, and that R. E. Haynes be made chairman. R. O. Wheeler was elected secretary. Motion by Rev. Cassidy carried, that a copy of the proceedings of the meeting be furnished the Dallas News and Oklahoman for publication.

Motion by Carlton Weaver prevailed that the temporary organization be made permanent and that the chair appoint an executive committee of seven, to perform such duties as ordinarily belong to such a committee.

On motion introduced by J. W. Davis the organization was named The Ada Law and Order League.

Interesting addresses were made by Sheriff-elect Tom Smith and County Attorney Robt. Wimbish, each pledging himself to do all within his power toward rigid law enforcement. Talks were also made by a few of our leading citizens and city officers. City Marshal Couch, especially, made a speech that appealed to all present.

Motion was made by A. M. Croxton that Carlton Weaver, E. W. Hardin and Mike Cassidy be appointed as a committee on resolutions, which was unanimously carried.

The following resolutions were introduced and read by A. M. Croxton, which were adopted by a standing unanimous vote:

Whereas, regular saloon fixtures have recently been placed in a store room on Main street, in the heart of the city, and preparation made to conduct a drinking joint therein, with seeming intention of violating the law, defying our officers, running rough shod over the citizenship of the city, and,

Whereas, drinking joints are at present being conducted throughout the city,

Therefore be it resolved, 1st. That we, the citizens of Ada, assembled in mass meeting, consider such conduct an insult to the citizenship of our community, an outrage on decency and good government.

2d. That we will not submit to the running of bar rooms or drinking joints of any kind in Ada in violation of law.

3d. That we declare those who persist in such violation of law undesirable citizens and they have our permission to move on.

4th. That we thus publicly express to our officers our moral support and co-operation in the enforcement of all law and maintaining order.

The permanent officers are: R. E. Haynes, chairman, R. O. Wheeler, secretary, Carlton Weaver, J. F. Jackson, A. A. Bobbitt, J. W. Beard, E. W. Hardin, J. T. Higgins and A. M. Croxton members of executive committee.

A roll of membership was opened and the organization of the Ada Law and Order League was complete.

FINANCIAL CONDITION GRADUALLY CLEARING

New York, Nov. 10.—The most eventful week in the financial history of the present generation came to a close Saturday with conditions much clearer than a week before, but with some clouds still hanging over the financial horizon. The previous week had closed with the disquieting announcement that New York bank reserves had lost $20,000,000 in cash in spite of deposits by the government during the week of a nearly equal sum, representing a net cash loss of $60,000,000.

The bank statement of yesterday changed this situation. While it shows a normal decrease in required reserves of $13,985,500, more than two-thirds of this decrease is due to the reserve requirements caused by increase in deposits because of the taking over of loans. Moreover, the actual cash loss of $4,313,000 is due to the system of averaging accounts for the entire week, including several days before the arrival of the new gold. Unless demands from the country are very heavy next week, the arrival of additional gold will more than offset the loss of cash last week and make a creditable showing for the reserves on Saturday next week.

Trust Company Stability.
The week began on Monday with a feeling of grave doubt as to the future of the two trust companies which had been subjected to severe runs. The possibility that they might go down and drag with them much of the financial structure which still stood erect kept Mr. Morgan, the trust company president and other financial leaders in almost continuous session until late Sunday morning, and on Wednesday until 3 o'clock in the morning. When it was finally announced early on Wednesday afternoon by President King of the Lincoln Trust company, acting as chairman of the committee of trust company presidents that the management of the Trust company of America and the Lincoln Trust company were to receive all the assistance they required in return for depositing the majority of their stock in the hands of the committee, the situation cleared, a large degree of confidence returned and the stock market advanced generally from 2 to 3 points. It was felt that the danger of a general crash in New York was over and that the surging wave storms would gradually subside.

Bank Failures Relatively Small.
One of the favorable features of the situation thus far is the relatively small number of failures of National banks as compared with the record in 1893. At that time seventy-eight National banks failed in the single month of July, and sixty-three in June and August, while during the first eight months of 1893 the number of suspensions of state and private banks was 415. In the present crisis the number of National bank suspensions reported does not exceed a dozen, and some of these are again open.

Favorable Commercial Situation.
The week closes with a favorable commercial situation as indicated by the reports of R. G. Dun & Co.

While October failures were the largest of any month for eleven years, the total being swelled by the suspension of several large establishments which represent the merger of smaller institutions, and the suspensions have been due to the curtailment of credit rather than the lack of business, yet the reports for the first week of November are distinctly favorable.

I. M. King, R. M. Roddie, J. R. Lawrence and W. H. L. Campbell have won their spurs as mighty hunters. Returning from an eleven days camp in the wild wood on Jack Fork, 30 miles east of Stringtown, 80 miles from Ada, they brought in one deer and an abundance of squirrels. Of course they tell some extravagant sounding stories of the abundance of game in that region—such as that when they broke camp and started homeward Campbell had to go ahead of the wagon and continually fire off his gun to frighten off the bear, deer, and small game, so that the wagon's progress would not be impeded—still they brought home venison and squirrels—sufficient partially to substantiate the stories.

Morning Joy.

One of the most pleasing features in "Rufus Rastus in Dixie" is the Fiske Chapel Choir. Carefully trained voices with the accompaniment of a specially built pipe organ, carried by the company, render sacred music that reaches the soul. The rich setting and costuming also leave a deep impression, not soon to be forgotten. Don't fail to see and hear this great feature at the opera house next Thursday night, Nov. 14.

MR. GOSLAW, WHO MET WITH REVERSES

"And that gentleman across from you, yes, the one with the wart on his upper lip that looks like a flirtation behind the palms, is Mr. Goslaw, who used to be wealthy," concluded Mrs. Blandin, summing up the boarding house "table of contents" for the benefit of the newcomer. "They do say when he had it he made things fly, though you'd never dream it to look at him now, poor man! He—"

"Mrs. Blandin, I've asked you twice if you'd have any of the cold dishes," came a weary voice from the head of the table.

"No, I don't want any," declined Mrs. Blandin. "Old worsted vegetables! Never saw a place where they had so many that all tasted exactly like gray yarn—turnips, beans, parsnips, carrots, cabbage, squash," she grumbled in a lower tone. "But I was telling you about Goslaw, wasn't I, dear. I took a liking to you the first time I saw you. I do hope you'll stay. Oh, about Goslaw. Well, at one time he was worth a million, then some speculation or other—I never can understand those stupid business deals—he lost most of it, kept on living high, made another fortune, and lost that, and now here he is, poor man!"

"Will you pass me the cream and sugar, Mrs. Blandin, if you're through with it?" asked the subject of Mrs. Blandin's narrative. "You don't need any sugar."

"Oh, Mr. Goslaw!" reproached the lady coyly. "I'm afraid you'll never get over saying pretty things."

"That's what a handsome New York widow once said to me," smiled Mr. Goslaw. "At the time I was taking her for a drive—I always drove a span in those days, Mrs. Blandin—and she shook her finger at me and said—No, I don't want any of the side dishes, Mrs. Eggnay, I never eat cabbage or turnips."

"Is that what the widow said?" de-has made and lost, the horses he has owned, and the widows he has admired!"

"If I knew all I do to-day I'd do different in living my life over," Mr. Goslaw was admitting to a young man "three down." "Though on the other hand I suppose circumstances were beyond my control!"

"Anyone could fleece him," sniffed Mrs. Blandin. "Why, a blonde-haired Circumstance that lived near where I used to and who sold mining stocks and—"

"I suppose it's worse to have had and lost, than never to have had," observed the woman-with-the-good-figure, who had been attending strictly to her "side dishes."

"It was pleasant while it lasted," sighed Mr. Goslaw. "One summer at Saratoga, where I met, by the way, a nice little—that's when I should have been home watching an uncertain market!" he ended abruptly and began to polish his large diamond scarf pin industriously.

"That pin's about all he's got left," commented Mrs. Blandin. "And it's a wonder someone hasn't got it away from him long before this."

"When I want to know the day of the week I just look at the kind of meat for dinner," said Mr. Goslaw to the Newcomer, who had been changed to a place beside him. "The menu is more reliable than the calendar. Roast beef stands for Monday, veal cutlets for Tuesday, roast lamb for Wednesday, steak—No, I don't want any creamed carrots! I'll have some of them lima beans, though. Katie didn't give me any coffee, Mrs. Eggnay, and—"

"There wasn't a drop of hot water again last night," came a querulous voice down the line. "I came in about 11:30—"

"I heard you," said Mr. Goslaw. "No

"Is it possible?" queried Mr. Goslaw incredulously. "Of course I'm expected to do something pretty handsome, for I believe they haven't heard of the unfortunate circumstances that have brought me down to this." He waved his hand contemptuously around the table.

"Mr. Goslaw," said Mrs. Eggnay with dignity, "you may be reduced, but this place isn't."

"While I want to give something nice, I can't, just at this time, put too much money into it," went on Mr. Goslaw. "Once I wouldn't have thought that—snapping his fingers—"of a thousand-dollar gift."

"You always was free enough when you had it, John Goslaw," said the white-haired woman who had known him "then." That was your great trouble—money would just slip through your fingers. You were all right to make money, but you couldn't keep it afterwards."

"You're about right, I guess, Mrs. Curtin," he meekly acknowledged. "But say, it's a sharp person that can get the best of me now. I had to learn my lesson, but I've learned it well. What I've got left, I reckon I know how to hang on to!"

"I hope you do, John," said the old lady, shaking her head hopelessly.

"Decided yet what you're going to get for the wedding present?" asked Mrs. Blandin, as she stared suspiciously at the combination salad and investigated it gingerly with one prong of her fork.

Mr. Goslaw's hand involuntarily sought his necktie, where for the first time there was no illuminating sparkle. Mrs. Blandin's eye followed the movement.

"Why, Mr. Goslaw! Have you lost your pin? When do you remember having it last?" she asked breathlessly. The whole table ceased its chatter and stared sympathetically at the man who seemed doomed to losses.

"I—no—that is, I haven't mislaid it," he explained with some embarrassment. "You know I never did care much for jewelry. I bought that stone once just to help a fellow out. He let me have it at a reasonable figure with the understanding he could redeem it at any time. But he never was fixed so that he could, and I've kinder worn it, and yes, it is a very fine one. Not so large as some, perhaps, but pure. I heard you come in Mr. Norcross," Mr. Goslaw interrupted himself to enter a general discussion that waged like what the firemen call a "stubborn fire—hard to get under control."

"Somebody took a bath at about midnight," accused an injured voice. "I heard the water run and run."

"It wasn't hot water you heard run and run," brimly stated the murderer of innocent sleep shamelessly.

"What did you do with your diamond?" insisted Mrs. Blandin. "Did you meet another widow?"

"As I was saying," he began, shifting in his chair, "not caring for such things myself, I am having it set in a brooch for my young friend who is to be married. I always thought the world of her mother. I sometimes think, if I hadn't lost everything that time, she might have—Thanks, I've used the cream."

"You are going to give that stone away?" almost shrieked Mrs. Blandin and Mrs. Eggnay in chorus. "The idea!"

"I want her to have it," said Mr. Goslaw with dignity. "I should like to know that when I'm gone Rosanna's daughter will have that stone!"

"And maybe she won't appreciate it one bit, she'll have so much," argued Mrs. Blandin. "I have always wanted a diamond all my life, and never got one. I remember you give that Miss Pearson, who you didn't know a bit well, a solitaire even bigger."

"I'd be glad to, my dear, now you have promised to be my wife—but the trinket has already—gone!"

"Oh, oh!" sobbed the exasperated Mrs. Blandin. "Why didn't you propose to me last week Thursday instead of waiting 'till now? Then you wouldn't have thrown away that lovely jewel."

"There, there, my dear," he said, patting her head. "It's too bad, but I always go on the principle that what's gone is gone, and it's no use crying over spilled ink on the new parlor carpet!"

Cherry—Rosanna's daughter was fittingly grateful for a dear little candlestick with a dryad twining slimly around the base, but her mother said she had every reason to expect something more costly from John Goslaw. Now who in the world could have got that diamond?

HOUSE CLEANING IN FALL.

Cellar Is One Important Point to Be Considered.

The house does not get so dirty during the summer that a general upheaval is necessary for fall house cleaning, though there is one place where the greatest attention must be given, and that is in the cellar. Damp days, together with the decaying vegetables and fruits stored in the cellar and the unavoidable dirt which is certain to accumulate, makes it really necessary to hang up a red light in that apartment unless the cellar is properly cleaned during the fall. Often the cleanest house will have a cellar in the most disreputable condition with spoiled fruits, vegetables and the like, making it a hotbed of diseases. Have the cellar walls swept and liberally whitewashed, clean the floor and sprinkle with lime. Every box, cupboard and boarding place should be thoroughly cleaned with hot water and soap. If there is any perceptible dampness, the cellar should be aired, if possible, and often this can be overcome by burning a small gas or oil stove in the cellar for one day. No difference how nicely one may prepare canned fruits and preserves, if the cellar is in a damp condition everything will mold and in many cases sour and spoil. One day's work, even though it be arduous labor, will save the summer's work represented in the canned fruits, jellies, etc.

CARE OF WAXED FLOORS.

Pure Turpentine the Best Thing With Which to Clean Them.

Those who have waxed floors in their dwellings know, according to indoors and out, how invaluable turpentine is in cleaning them. With sand paper or steel wool, dipped in turpentine, the blackest coating, which is apt to accumulate in winter on waxed floors not frequently polished, can be easily and quickly removed; and a washing with turpentine does much to brighten up any waxed floor, preparatory to the application of a light fresh coat of wax and polishing with the weighted brush. As with all other painters' materials, however, turpentine is shamefully adulterated, and care must be taken to get only the best and purest from some thoroughly reliable dealer. The usual adulterant is cheap benzine, and as benzine turns good floor wax a dirty white, turpentine so adulterated has an injurious effect on the floor. The floor "waxes" made with tallow show less effect from adulterated turpentine, but the wise householder will use only those floor waxes made with bee's wax and turpentine, with a little paraffine, but no tallow.

Onion Soup.

Six onions, slice them, put in frying pan with a little butter, fry to a golden brown, then add a teaspoon of flour; let this get a nice brown, then pour one pint of beef or chicken broth over it. Boil four minutes, put into pudding pan. Put two slices bread on top, sprinkle with parmesan cheese, then a little melted butter over the cheese. Put in oven, let it brown, serve with a little parmesan cheese in separate dish. Fine. It must be served in dish it is baked in. Parmesan cheese comes in bottles all graded.

Tomato Pillau.

Alternate layers of boiled rice and raw tomatoes in the baking dish. Sprinkle over each layer of tomatoes a little minced green pepper and tender young onion; also some previously stewed veal, chicken, or ham. Salt to taste. When the dish is full place a layer of green corn from the cob, and a little rolled cracker to give firmness, with bits of butter on top. Add a cup of velvety broth, which must penetrate all of it, and bake half or three-quarters of an hour, according to degree of heat in the oven.

A Chocolate Affair.

Chocolate now is served at afternoon functions where tea once was considered the only proper beverage. At a charming afternoon affair given by a girl who had become tired of the beaten track of the usual "teas" the refreshments served were composed almost entirely of the chocolate variety. There were cups of hot chocolate with whipped cream, thin bread and butter sandwiches, with olives for a relish; this of course was followed by a chocolate ice, fancy chocolate cakes and chocolate bonbons.

To Remove Medicine Stains.

Stains made by medicine and liniment are often obstinate to remove in the hands of an amateur. Iodine marks may be removed by washing the spots with strong ammonia until it fades, after which wash with tepid water and strong soap.

Ammonia is equally good for removing cod liver oil stains. Fuller's earth made into a paste and thickly applied to the spots will also remove them.

Fairy Pudding.

One pint boiling water, stir into this three tablespoons of cornstarch, mixed smooth with a little cold water, the juice of a lemon, piece of butter the size of a walnut and one beaten egg. It will thicken up nicely in three or four minutes. Then turn into mold. To be eaten with sugar and cream or rich milk.

Mexican Alets.

Two tablespoonfuls of blanched almonds, three tablespoonfuls of rice. Grind the almonds fine first, then the rice, then mix; add a cup of sweet milk and cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. Add salt or sugar to taste and serve.

SPECIALIZATION.

Once upon a time, not many years hence, perhaps, a man, being seized with a sudden and violent pain, hastens to a doctor for relief.

"Where is the pain?" asks the doctor.

"Right here," groans the man, "and lays his hand on the afflicted part."

The doctor opens his case of instruments and takes therefrom several delicate compasses and a number of finely graduated tapes. With these he proceeds to make precise and elaborate measurements, stopping at frequent intervals to set down a great many figures on a sheet of paper.

"What are you doing?" cries the man at last, for his pain is all the time increasing.

"Of course I shall make very sure, first of all, that the location of the difficulty brings it within my specialty. Do you take me for a quack? You deserve to have been born a thousand years ago!" replied the doctor, severely.—Puck.

Reaction.

"Don't deceive me, doctor! Tell me the truth! Will my boy get well?"

"Get well? Why, madam, he is in no more danger of dying than you are. The car wheels didn't touch him. It was the rear platform he was trying to grab."

"The little rascal! I'll whip him within an inch of his life for giving me such a scare!"—Chicago Tribune.

"Mrs. Eggnay," interrupted Mrs. Blandin, "I would like some of the cabbage and a very little of the turnip."

"I asked you three different times and you refused them!" declared Mrs. Eggnay.
